

Performance Management Systems

March 2, 2015

Performance management systems require a clear definition of system objectives. If required we can start the project with an analysis of the potential shareholder value impact of each system objective.

At the most senior level, a system provides an agreed basis to discuss performance.

Contact us for data, surveys, analyses, design, testing and implementation of executive performance management systems.